American Homeowners Resource Center

We are a public interest interactive website for homeowners. This section is for those who live in Homeowners Associations. The primary driving force behind the American Homeowners Resource Center (AHRC) is a national and international grassroots network of homeowners working together to protect homes. Our Mission To help preserve, strengthen, and enrich the American home, AHRC has developed the following interactive websites to address the spiritual, educational, financial, legal, psychological and artistic forces which shape peoples' homes and lives. These sites provide a wealth of information - and hopefully inspiration - to every homeowner. The mission is simple but very important. It is to help citizens in homeowner associations to take back their homes from the two generations of crooked lawyers, politicians, judges and vendors who have stolen them. Over 50 million Americans now live in homeowner associations, with estimated reserves of over $50 billion. In order to expose the scams and the people behind the scams, so that homeowners can reclaim their property rights and their life savings, AHRC will pursue the following five goals: 1. To help preserve the constitutional and legal rights of homeowners 2. To provide information to homeowners on those rights 3. To help homeowners to protect and preserve those rights 4. To publicize violations of those rights 5. To remedy abuses of those rights by education, mediation, legislation, litigation, reparations and elections. A great wrong has been perpetrated on the American people. The mission of this website is to correct that wrong.

OBAMANIA SWEEPS THE LAND!

OBAMANIA SWEEPS THE LAND!

Revitalizing America

February 10, 2008

By California News & World Reports (View author info)

Los Angeles, California -

A new phenomenon is sweeping America. Obamania. Not since John F. Kennedy brought a new generation to power has anything so gripped America as Obamania. From Alaska to Louisiana, from South Carolina to the state of Washington, peoples' spirits have been elevated and invigorated in a way that has not been seen for the last 50 years.

With the president's approval rating at a devastating 30%, and Congress at an even more abysmal 22%, the people of America have shown that they have lost faith totally and completely in their government. With a war in Iraq that is bleeding both its soldiers and economy to death, with a debt that USA TODAY estimates to exceed 51 trillion dollars (yes, trillion), with a financial fraud perpetrated by the highest levels of America's government and Wall Street that has made the U.S. into the fraud capital of the world - Americans are shell-shocked, thunder-struck and devastated at what their erstwhile leaders have done to the country and its name around the world.

Clinton and McCain are from an old and tired generation that has messed up America. Clinton for all her glowing words is part of the in-group that has led to America's decay. Not only did she get America into Iraq, but she and her husband have parlayed their political positions into a source of great wealth for themselves. Her husband "earned" a $31 million "donation" to his foundation from a Canadian businessman, whom he helped to get a uranium contract from Kazakhstan. Hillary recently "loaned" $5 million to her faltering campaign. Where did she get that $5 million from, and how was she able to so easily write a check for that amount?

McCain is more of Bush - a warmonger. Who knows what wars he will get us into. Like another former senator from Arizona, McCain is the Barry Goldwater of the 21st. century. In order to be a true straight talker, you need to be a straight thinker first. McCain is a prisoner of the mentality of the past, and one shudders when one thinks what he will do to America.

In the midst of this dark and terrible abyss, America is blessed to have somebody who incisively penetrates that darkness and shows America that there is a true road to hope. He does not have the mental baggage of the past, and he has not sold his soul to those who have ravaged America. He makes it possible for an American to be proud of being an American once again. All people want a leader who inspires genuine hope, and Barack Obama does that.

It is not surprising then that Obamania is sweeping the land like a tidal wave. The politicians of old would do the country a favor by getting out of the way.

Hence California News and World Report unhesitatingly endorses Barack Obama for President. This election is about the future. Let not the past shackle that future. It is change that we can believe in.

Why Hillary Clinton Scored Big With the Hispanics and Asian Americans in California. Is This Gang Related?

By AHRC Homeowners for Barack Obama - Feb 8th, 2008 at 8:11 pm EST

Also listed in: Action Center Updates | AHRC Homeowners for Barack Obama

All of them--from Los Angeles Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa to the Asian American Precinct captain--were responding to what might be called aspirational politics. The individuals become proxies for the community. You hear them say in their campaigns, "When I win, you win."

Among Latinos and Asian American groups, Hillary scored big, because the Latinos and Asians votes remained emergent (new), not yet insurgent (rebellious).

What this mean is that the Latinos and the Asians have not yet rebelled against authority or leadership, especially somebody who belongs to a group involved in an uprising. Instead, Latinos and Asian Americans are developing or rising, especially for the first time.

New voting groups respond to leaders in their community. In other words, if Hillary wins the leader, she wins the followers. Rebellious voting groups for instance, respond to calls to make a difference, and focus on more single issues or agendas. If Hillary stakes out the place where the single issues or agendas are, then she captures the community. Relatively, Hillary has played the politics of the emergence.

Bill Clinton, however has juxtaposed Hillary's position, by stating at the Brookins Community A.M.E. Church (a black church) in South Central Los Angeles on February 3, 2008, "We all want to be in a gang," Why did he use that language?

The House Judiciary Committee was having a hearing with Micheal Mukasey who is the new U.S. Attorney General. On February 7, 2008. Rep. Diane Watson (D) of California was angry at the poor records of investigations and prosecutions, asking Micheal Mukasey why they haven't investigated the ongoing housing fraud against African Americans, and minority's civil rights involving violations, and the predatory lending fraud.

The Department of Justice has a very poor record in investigating housing fraud and civil rights violations among blacks and minorities, the people involved in many of these crimes often operate in "gangs." They fail to enforce the laws, and the victims to these crimes are blacks and minorities. These are the people who have lost homes, and are losing their homes and ending up in prisons. Blacks and minority areas in many states like California (e.g. San Bernardino and Riverside Counties), and Ohio are reeking with foreclosures and violations against the people, and nothing has been done to investigate the fraud. Could this be what Bill Clinton was talking about?

At a 1996 while stumping for votes for his own re-election campaign Bill Clinton made told a young Hispanic boy at a San Diego townhall meeting "you have to join the right gang." San Diego is not the only place where the joining of the right gangs is. There are other gangs to join, like in Harlem, and New York, where the Clintons have been circumventing.

Those that join these "right gangs" are the one that have plotted in the taking of our homes and violated our civil rights, and robbed our people and yet, they are still attacking the blacks and the minorities by dismissing complaints, and violating the peoples' due processes to have a fair fight to keep their homes. And, yet the ones that are joining these low profile gangs, they are stating these blacks and minorities are gangs.

An interesting article titled Why Latinos and Asian Americans Went for Hillary author John Chang wrote. "So Hillary won by old party-style top-down appeals to Latinos and Asian Americans. Dems shouldn't rest thinking that this strategy will hold for long. Younger Latino and Asian American voters were energized by Obama, and formed a visible and crucial part of his GOTV ground troops. They had an impact."

AHRC NEWS SERVICES ENDORSES BARACK OBAMA

By AHRC Homeowners for Barack Obama - Feb 3rd, 2008 at 5:18 pm EST

If we listen to what the presidential candidates say, we will be transported into lands of bliss. Yet we listened to past presidential candidates, and where are we?

Our economy is in a shambles. More and more American workers face a bleak future as their jobs go overseas. America is drowning in red ink, as we borrow more and more from overseas. We are mired in a war that we cannot win, and borrow $10 billion a month to keep fighting. 5 soldiers a day on average commit suicide because of the war.

So, how can we look into the inner heart and mind of a candidate to see what they truly believe and feel?

The answer is simple. Look at what they have done.

For example, on the evening of September 6, 2005, a luxuriously appointed private jet landed in the Central Asian country of Kazakhstan. Inside were a wealthy Canadian business man, Frank Giustra, and former president Bill Clinton.

At a banquet with the president of Kazakhstan that evening, Mr. Clinton praised the president of Kazakhstan, and supported him to head O.C.S.E., an international organization that monitor elections and supports democracy. 48 hours later, Frank Giustra, won a stunning contract for 3 uranium mines in Kazakhstan, run by the state-owned Kazatomprom. Several months later, Frank Giustra donated $31.3 million to Mr. Clinton's foundation.

What does this have to do with Hillary Clinton's candidacy? Everything.

It must be presumed that she knew where her husband was on the evening of September 6, 2005. It must be presumed that she knew that Frank Giustra donated $31.3 million to her husband's foundation shortly thereafter.

So, what is the significance of this?

In short, the significance is that the president of Kazakhstan has been charged with running his country very undemocratically. O.C.S.E - the very organization that he sought to head - charged that elections were held in an "atmosphere of intimidation" and "ballot-box stuffing". Yet, Mr. Clinton called the president of Kazakhstan in December 2005 to congratulate him on his "winning" the election with 91% of the vote.

One recognizes the delicate situation between spouses. But, Hillary is asking us to make her president and we are justified in asking whether her commitment to human rights is genuine or simply window-dressing?

If this were her only lapse, it might be overlooked, but her long history of courting large corporations such as the pharmaceutical companies and banks establish that she will continue to do so if elected.

At her rallies in California, she has had on the stage with her, many of those who have wreaked havoc on homeowners in homeowner associations and created foreclosures - Gray Davis, John Garamendi, Willie Brown. Homeowners cannot expect her to be their friend if she gets elected.

For the above reasons - and many more that space does not allow - AHRC News Services endorses Barack Obama to be president. This is the first time that AHRC has endorsed any candidate for president. Obams's actions have been consistent with his words. He has not been co-opted by the special interests. His clarity of mind sees beyond the divisive categories of the past. Of all the candidates, he is the only one that seems equipped to lead us into the future. A vote for anybody else is a vote for the past.
